A CHAR DECISION.

Thild States Commissioner Osborn, in the case of a cigar dealer, charged with having sold cigars not properly stamped, has decided that section 94 should mot be construed so as to detent the obvious intention of Congress. The wording and spirit of the law on the sub-to detent the obvious intention of Congress. The wording and spirit of the law on the subject of the manufacture of cigars and the selling shot exposing them for sale overs both domestic and imported cigars alike, and, although technically the nature part of section 98 spylles in words only to imported cigars, yet, considering section 55 of the statutes covering the case, taken in connection with section 94, it is plain that Congress must have meanl, and did mean to prohibilithe sale of both domestic and finported cigars in every way except as laid down and prosonbed in section 94. That if the defendant had not violated section 94 by selling domestic cigars as charged. He has certainly violated section 95 by selling domestic cigars as charged. He has certainly violated the provision of section 85, but it was doubliess the intention of Congress that in striving at a correct interpretation of the law both sections should be construed in connection with each other, and that a due consideration of the two sections should be construed in connection with the wording should show that they covered the case. The defendant was held for trial.

ABOUT THE CURAN EXPEDITIONS.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Marshal Barlow positively denies that any expedition left this port either Wednesday or Thursday night, and port either Wednesday or Thursday night, and as of opinion that no other expedition has left here except that of the Peril. He has no doubt that cargoes of nuntilions of war have been taken to Cuba, but as there was no legal proof of real destination the could not interfere. Per contra, about 300 Cuban fillusters were quartered in Cooper's Hall, Jersey City, last evening, were supplied with rations, came over to New York in squads, and have since disappeared. There were forty or fifty men about the New York beadquarters in Houston street to-day.

Mr. William States justly proud of the success of the establishment with which he was individually connected. Mr. William Steinway responded on behalf of the firm in a terse and appropriate speech, on the conclusion of which the procession formed, and, headed by the band, marched down Broadway, through Broome street, and down the Bovery to the foot of Market street, whence a atcamboat conveyed them to the grounds of their grand plenic at Jones's Wood, where the rest of the day was most agreesably apent in social enjoyment with their smilles. The procession was veld arranged and imposing in appearance, and created a marked sensation as it passed through the saveral streets in its route; and the whole affair, which was conducted with enthresism on all sides, was equal, redditable to Meesrs. I observe in your paper of the 14th a paragraph sixing that I "have takes the strong for Walker and against the Constitution." This does not correctly repressed my position, and though my individual views are of little consequence to the public, yet, as I do not wish to be misunderstood by any, I take occasion to place myself right. At the last term of the Franklin county court, after Colones Marcin of Hearry had been called upon me, and in your court, after Colones Marcin of Hearry had made some remarks expressive of my views of the duty of Virginians in the approaching election. Regarding the instrument so a nomalously propounded to the people of Virginia as State constitution by the recent proclamation of the Fresident of the United States, as in its origin, its principles, its details, and its mode of submission, degrading to the State, destinative of its honor and interests, and subversive of all semblance of States eights it, either as a whole or in broken doses. I told them, however, that it was not improbable that, by reason of what I regarded as the unwas counsel of some of our public men, the instrument would be palmed upon us either with or without the disfranchising clauses, and as by the action of a convention recently held in Rild been withdrawn. Thus unrowing the country of Governor to a choice between two Northern men who had been nominated by their respective wings of the Republican party, and su the infanny of Wells' character, public and private, had been fully developed and established, I advised them to cast their votes for Walker, as a choice of cvills, upon the chance of his proving better than his opponent. Paris to be a seaport.

Paris, it is mid, is to be made a seaport in pursuance of an intention long cherished by the French Emperor. The plans as we see it stated, is to construct a salt-water canal from Dieppe of sufficient capacity for the largest vessels, the water to be contributed by the sea and kept at proper levels by locks and flood-gates. A large basin will constitute the entrance to the canal, which will be about a hundred and sixteen miles in length. The natural the canal, which will be about a hundred and sixteen miles in length. The natural facilities of the route which has been selected will allow ships of the largest class to go safely under all but two bridges by merely striking their top gallantmasts.

The plans for this great work are said to be in course of preparation in the Imperial palace under the Emperor's immediate supervision. Immense results are anticipated from the bringing of Paris into direct communication with the sea.

DEAD IN THE ROAD.

A Man Shot and Killed at Sulphur Well.

Between us and eivem wiesch tast night two young horsemen galloped into the city and gave information to the Coroner and police of a tragit of courrence that happened at the piace known as sulphur Well, seven mise out on the Prestonstreis road. These young men state that near sundown last evening, while at the Well, they heard a pistol-shot, and on looking toward the sound, say John Arnold fall in the road, and ames Lovell, who had fred the shot, run away is hot haste. On going up to the fallen man the depoments found him dead, the bullet having passertated his heart. They fidd not hear what passed between the decessed and the boundied, and thew nothing of their differences: but they state that a man named at the boundied, and thew nothing of their differences: but they state that a man named at the whole difficulty. He had not hear is seen up to the time they state for the city. It is further said by the two youing men quoted that Arnold and Lovell were together and en friendly terms Thursday, and that no previous ill feeling is known to have existed between them. Shortly before the falled det it was observed that the decessed was under the influence of whisty. Lovell it said to have been perfectly sober. Both men were well known at and about Sulphur Well. Arnold was an old reddicht of the piace, where he carried on the wagon-making business. He was unmarried. GEN. E. KIRBY SMITH.

Close of the Session of the Western Military Academy.

A gentlemen so noted in the annals of the country, from his connection with the stirring events and great battles of the late war, scarcely over falls into the quietnde of life which den. Smith has assumed. Gen. Lee, at the head of his great University, has chosen the same walk in life—that of educating the next generation. The Western Military Academy has just closed its session, and we are gratified to learn that the prospects for its continued success are undiminished. In time it must be a great leastiful time it must be a great leastiful to the fister. Attracting gwe at 18 true, Gen. Smith must soon prepare to erect new barracks. In one State alone there are 1,600 indice who have pronhed him their noss as pupils. It is true that the most of them have only been married a year or two, but in the manural ourse of events and the predominance of male children, it is fair to coasider, 10 years bence, that the Genoral will have a small army under his control. The academy is stimated near the town of Newcastle, Henry county, about five miles from the Louisville and Cincinnati railrada. It is heathful, accessible and retired. The discipline is strictly military, requiring system and punctuality in the discharge of every duit, and whenever a boy show trails of character or behaves it such manner as to render him an unit associate for youths, who are expected to be gentlemen, painful as the duit, Gen. Smith will not hedisate a moment in requesting the parents to withdraw him.

The studies are basis of Greak, French, German is, Gen., Smith will not hesitate a moment in re-questing the parents to withdraw him.

The studies are hatts, Greek, Fronch, German and Spanisi; Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, and Engineering; Chemistry, Mineralogy, Geo-ogy, Botany, Geography (deerpitive and physi-cal), History, Engitsh composition and Grammar; Penmanably, Book-keeping and Infantry taciles. The charges for board, fullion, Juel, lights and washing are for the first term $135, for the second per term.
Cadets are required to furnish their rooms at a cost of about $20,
The next session commences ist September.
It is scarcely necessary for us to say that the tree grows as the twig is bent. The education of our youth is the formation of a mation, rejets with intelligence and property, and, in shaping the civilization and everytife advancement of the next generation, there will be few agents more effective than Gen. Smith and his accomplished assistants.

Last of Esiber.

The final representation of Esiber, at Weitiger Hal., lest night, drew one of the most select audences that has yet hereal and witnessed the delighthi oratorio. Every cest dewn stairs was liled, and the crowl in the galteries was by no means meager. The oratorio was rendered throughout with sublime effect. All present were charmed by the glorious music, and rejoiced that the pecunitry results were so helpful to the Bresidway Medacits: Church, for the benefit of which the beautiful Queen Esther make her last appearance upon the stage of Westger.
